HOPE IN TROUBLED TIMES

Hope is hard-wired into our humanity. Long into the months of mask-wearing, hand-sanitizing, and environmental cleanup, it seems our self-confidence has taken a whooping. Battered and tattered it may be, but God places hope in the heart of every person; hope is infused into our heart.

Hope inspires our actions and aligns them to Christ. Without hope, discouragement would be insurmountable. Hope pushes us ever onward during times of abandonment and isolation. Times like these times, when hope opens our heart to the expectation of eternal life. Lifted up by hope, we are unspoiled by selfishness which points us ever towards the happiness that flows from charity.

Hebrews 6:19 tells us hope is the “anchor of the soul, sure and firm, which reaches into the interior behind the veil.” This beautiful image echoes the immutable nature of God and God’s imprint upon the soul. In our struggle for salvation, hope protects us like a spiritual weapon, even affording us joy under circumstances that try our patience; things like furloughs, closings, cancellations, and slow-downs.

God’s grace has put seeds of all hope in your heart. This hope is nurtured and cultivated in prayer. Like a tiny ember, hope waits to be fanned to flame through the power of the Holy Spirit. Our deepest hope is the glory of heaven promised by God to those who love him and do his will. In hope, we pray for salvation, and as a church we pray all are saved.

“Let us hold unwaveringly to our confession that gives us hope, for he who made the promise is trustworthy.” (Hebrews 10:23) Hebrews is clear. Jesus Christ is our hope; His promise is Truth. In sickness and in health, for better or for worse, or united in death, Jesus Christ is our hope and our strength and our salvation. Let’s pull together to hope for a return to health of all our relationships strained by the rules of COVID19. For this, we pray.

CCD classes are scheduled to start Sunday, November 1st. Times like these make it ever more important to grow our children’s faith since they are the future of the Church. Please register your child soon. A great way to grow one’s faith is to share it with others, so please encourage your teenager to come and help.
